incorporate all of the things that can be enforced, and clean up some other language. A survey was done of about 10 other cities liquor license ordinances to ensure the city's ordinance lined up with other cities of the same size.

V. OLD BUSINESS

VI. NEW BUSINESS

A. VALIDATION/VACATION OF PUBLIC STREETS AND PUBLIC RIGHTS OF WAY WITH BOISE COUNTY. ACTION ITEM

City Attorney Callahan informed council this carried over from the last couple of meetings discussing Myers Street, public access, and public use. Since that time there have been a few other streets identified that are not in the road book the County keeps that are platted. The process to ensure everything is cleaned up and recorded is to petition the County to do a validation and vacation of the public streets and public rights of way. A surveyor has been engaged to survey the streets in question. Once the County takes up the petition there will be a hearing to consider whether the streets have been established as public rights of way and public streets. Counselor Elliott made a motion, seconded by Heffington, to file a petition for validation and vacation of non-recorded public streets and public right of ways with Boise County. 4 ayes. Motion carried.

B. LETTER OF INTENT FROM CAROL KIRKLAND – IDAHO CITY HISTORIC PRESERVATION COMMISSION. ACTION ITEM

Counselor Secor questioned how many commissioners need to reside within the city limits and how many can be outside the city limits. City Attorney Callahan responded that the city code does not have residency requirements. Counselor Secor made a motion, seconded by Elliott, to appoint Carol Kirkland to the Idaho City Historic Preservation Commission. 4 ayes. Motion carried.

C. LETTER OF INTENT FROM RHONDA JAMESON – IDAHO CITY HISTORIC PRESERVATION COMMISSION. ACTION ITEM

Counselor Secor made a motion, seconded by Elliott, to appoint Rhonda Jameson to the Idaho City Historic Preservation Commission. 4 ayes. Motion carried.

D. NOISE VARIANCE FOR THE GOLD MINE SALOON AUGUST 25 & 26, 2023 TILL 1AM. ACTION ITEM

Mayor Everhart explained that this has been granted in past years for the same time frame and same event. Counselor Adams added that the Goldmine's music lately has been extremely loud, and she has received multiple complaints about it. Adams requested that the Goldmine lower the volume during these events.

Rose Adams addressed council and asked if the city has a noise ordinance. Mayor Everhart responded yes, up until 11pm. Adams explained that she lives on Bear Run and she can hear the music there. Adams read from a document that Boise and Meridian have regarding noise and suggested that maybe some of the language should be added to Idaho City's ordinance. Adams further expressed that she does not look forward to listening to the loud music until 1AM.

Shauna Asher explained that she lives behind Trudy's and the music is so loud normally and she cannot imagine listening to it until 1AM. Asher is also concerned about the Goldmine controlling their crowds and providing the needed security so that there are not any issues.

Carrie Anne Kowalczyk addressed council and thanked them for the work on Montgomery and changing the time of council meetings. Kowalczyk added that she did not see why the Goldmine could not move the music inside after 11pm. Kowalczyk further explained that when the Goldmine first began doing the music it could barely be heard and this last weekend was clearly audible.

Steve Ellis, Goldmine owner addressed council and the citizens present and explained the requested variance is taking place the same weekend as the Jack Pine Roundup which could potentially bring a couple thousand people to town. After the rodeo is typically one of the Goldmine's biggest days during the last 5 years and this event is the same as what has been done in the past. Ellis explained that he is happy to work on lowering the sound. There will potentially be a couple hundred people at the Goldmine, and it is not feasible to do things inside. Mayor Everhart explained that the citizens have a valid point and questioned if Ellis has discussed having additional security measures. Ellis explained that anytime they have events like this they have local security come in. Mayor Everhart also questioned the loudness of the music and explained there are homes close by. Ellis responded that he would be happy to work on the noise level.

Counselor Elliott questioned if there was a way to enforce a noise variance but toned down. Counselor Adams explained that Boise, Meridian, Nampa, and Garden City have noise ordinances that have a decibel limits or a specific distance. Mayor Everhart added that currently Idaho City does not have a decibel limit, but that may be something that needs to be added in the future. Discussion on the noise and what could be done ensued.

Bobby Mathews addressed Ellis and explained that people are informed to call if there is an issue but nobody at the Goldmine answers the phone. Mathews further explained that last Saturday his sick mother could not get to sleep with the air conditioner and a fan running due to the noise level. Mathews added that he runs a responsible business and all he wants is the other Goldmine owner to run the business responsibly. Mathews then questioned the noise ordinance and what time it says the noise will stop. If it says 11pm then it should stop at 11pm. Discussion on what time the music stopped last weekend ensued. Teishia Mathews explained that they would not have a hard time accepting things if the Goldmine consistently shut things down at 11pm, but they have not. Teishia added that they have been having these issues for years. Mayor Everhart explained that they have already addressed the owners of the Goldmine and they have agreed to stop the music at 10:55 to alleviate this issue.

Brenda Secor questioned the amount of people potentially coming to the Goldmine after the Rodeo and the number of Idaho City Police Officers, which could be a potential issue.

Roy Fields added that he lives on Lodgepole Ln. and can hear the noise.

Mayor Everhart and council agreed to table the Variance until the next meeting. Kowalczyk added that it would be nice if the Goldmine would verify the number of security they will provide. Ellis responded that everyone on his staff will be on and 2-3 for security. Discussion on staff and security ensued. Mayor Everhart requested for the next meeting Ellis provide a plan as far as what the decibel levels could be and detail on their security plans. Counselor Heffington asked if Ellis would personally be present for the event and Ellis responded yes. Discussion on the event and plans ensued.

VII. EXECUTIVE SESSION

Public works will be working on Bear Run Thursday to compact the new material that was added.

and the 1990s. The 1990s have seen a dramatic increase in the number of people who have been diagnosed with bipolar disorder, and a corresponding increase in the number of people who are taking mood stabilizers. This increase has been attributed to a number of factors, including a greater awareness of the condition, a greater willingness to seek treatment, and a greater availability of mood stabilizers.

One of the most common mood stabilizers is lithium. Lithium is a naturally occurring mineral that has been used for a long time to treat bipolar disorder. It is effective in both the manic and depressive phases of the illness, and it has a long history of safety and efficacy. However, lithium has a number of side effects, including weight gain, tremor, and thyroid dysfunction.

Another common mood stabilizer is valproate. Valproate is an anticonvulsant that has been used for a long time to treat bipolar disorder. It is effective in both the manic and depressive phases of the illness, and it has a long history of safety and efficacy. However, valproate has a number of side effects, including weight gain, hair loss, and liver dysfunction.

Carbamazepine is another mood stabilizer that has been used for a long time to treat bipolar disorder. It is effective in both the manic and depressive phases of the illness, and it has a long history of safety and efficacy. However, carbamazepine has a number of side effects, including weight gain, dizziness, and liver dysfunction.

Atypical antipsychotics are a newer class of mood stabilizers that have been developed in the 1990s. They are effective in both the manic and depressive phases of the illness, and they have a long history of safety and efficacy. However, atypical antipsychotics have a number of side effects, including weight gain, dizziness, and liver dysfunction.

There are a number of factors that can affect the effectiveness of mood stabilizers. These factors include the individual's genetics, the individual's metabolism, and the individual's adherence to the medication. It is important for individuals to work closely with their healthcare provider to determine the best mood stabilizer for them and to monitor for side effects.

However, mood stabilizers can have a number of side effects, and it is important for individuals to work closely with their healthcare provider to determine the best mood stabilizer for them and to monitor for side effects.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase from 1.1 billion to 1.4 billion.

There are a number of reasons why the number of children in the world is increasing. One of the main reasons is that the number of children who are surviving to the age of 15 is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including improved medical care, better nutrition, and a decrease in child mortality.

Another reason why the number of children in the world is increasing is that the number of children who are being born is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including a decrease in the age at which women are having children, and an increase in the number of children who are being born to women who are already having children.

There are a number of other factors that are contributing to the increase in the number of children in the world. These include a decrease in the number of children who are being adopted, and an increase in the number of children who are being born to women who are already having children.

The increase in the number of children in the world is a cause for concern. This is because it is leading to a number of problems, including a shortage of resources, a lack of education, and a high level of poverty.

There are a number of ways in which we can address these problems. One of the most important is to improve the quality of education. This will help to ensure that children are able to learn and to develop their skills.

Another important way to address these problems is to improve the quality of health care. This will help to ensure that children are able to survive and to live healthy lives.

There are a number of other ways in which we can address these problems. These include providing financial support to families, and improving the quality of the environment.

The increase in the number of children in the world is a challenge that we must face. It is one that requires a coordinated effort from all of us.

By working together, we can ensure that all children have the opportunity to learn, to grow, and to live healthy lives.

This is our responsibility, and it is one that we must take seriously.

Let us work together to ensure that all children have a bright future.

Thank you for your attention.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase from 1.1 billion to 1.4 billion.

There are a number of reasons why the number of children in the world is increasing. One of the main reasons is that the number of children who are surviving to the age of 15 is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including improved healthcare, better nutrition, and a decrease in child mortality.

Another reason why the number of children in the world is increasing is that the number of children who are being born is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including a decrease in the age at which women are having children, and an increase in the number of children who are being born to women who are already having children.

There are a number of other factors that are contributing to the increase in the number of children in the world. These include a decrease in the number of children who are being adopted, and an increase in the number of children who are being born to women who are already having children.

The increase in the number of children in the world is a cause for concern. This is because it is leading to a number of problems, including a shortage of resources, a lack of education, and a high level of poverty.

There are a number of things that can be done to help address these problems. These include providing better healthcare, improving nutrition, and increasing the number of children who are being adopted.

It is important that we take action now to address these problems. If we do not, the number of children in the world will continue to increase, and the problems will become even more serious.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are poor has increased by 1 billion.

There are many reasons for this. One is that the world population has increased by 1 billion in the last 20 years. Another is that the world's resources are being used up. The world's forests are being cut down, the world's oceans are being overfished, and the world's rivers are being polluted. All of these things are making it harder for people to live in the world.

There are also many reasons why people are poor. One is that they do not have enough money to buy the things they need to live. Another is that they do not have enough food to eat. A third is that they do not have enough shelter to live in. All of these things are making it harder for people to live in the world.

There are many things that we can do to help people who are poor. One is to give them money. Another is to give them food. A third is to give them shelter. All of these things can help people to live better lives.

There are also many things that we can do to help the world. One is to stop cutting down forests. Another is to stop overfishing oceans. A third is to stop polluting rivers. All of these things can help the world to be a better place to live in.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision of a new mental health system, which will be based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care and treatment.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.

These principles are reflected in the new Mental Health Act (Mental Health Act 2003) and the new Mental Health Review Tribunal (Mental Health Act 2003).

The new Mental Health Act (Mental Health Act 2003) will come into force in 2005. It will replace the current Mental Health Act (Mental Health Act 1983).

The new Mental Health Act (Mental Health Act 2003) will give people with mental health problems more control over their care and treatment. It will also give people with mental health problems more rights to live in their own homes and communities.

The new Mental Health Act (Mental Health Act 2003) will also give people with mental health problems more rights to participate in decisions about their care and treatment.
